

New Life Ministries

September 2, 2005

To Whom It May Concern:

Jamie Clark was a very skilled and reliable employee for New Life Ministries. He was a dependable employee who would see a project through from beginning to end, even if it meant stretching his schedule and working exceptional hours.

Jamie was always very helpful to other employees who came to him for help. Jamie started working in our service/fulfillment center, but after a short period of time we discovered his skill and aptitude for working with and programming computers. He was an integral part of developing our web properties and maintaining them. He worked with New Life Ministries for five years.

If you decide to hire Jamie, I believe you'll get the same skilled, reliable, cooperative employee we benefited from. If our financial status was stronger and we weren't forced to make some cuts in staff for financial reasons, I'm sure Jamie would still be employed here.

Sincerely yours,

Larry Sonnenburg
